

CONSPIRING TO OBSTRUCT THE MAILS.

Officers of the American Railway Union in California complain that C. P. Huntington, President of the Southern Pacific Company, conspired at the time of the strike last summer to obstruct the mails. United States District Attorney Knight has decided to issue no warrant for the arrest of Mr. Huntington until the A. R. U. produce better evidence of his guilt than a sworn statement procured on cross-examination. As men have been arrested on charge which there was no more evidence to substantiate than the charges against Mr. Huntington, he should, so far as the courts are concerned, receive the same treatment as the members of the A. R. U. It is suggested that the mails and interstate commerce for a sufficient employee to refuse to handle Pullman cars, it may be a violation of law for a railroad president to prohibit the movement of mail trains unless they are partly made up of Pullman cars.

Laws are supposed to be enacted for the government of the whole people, the rich and the poor, the employer and the employee, and very many laws that those whose duty it is to enforce the law should make no distinction between a railroad president and a railroad employee. If the law shows that Mr. Huntington and his men in his employ are guilty of doing wrong, they should be punished. The evidence against Mr. Huntington is not sufficient to justify a conviction who have been convicted of the offense with which he is charged. To command respect for the law, it should be administered impartially.

ROAD TO BE INSURANCED.

James H. Budd is to be inaugurated Governor of California regardless of what the Republican State Central Committee may say or attempt to do to prevent it. The law and the voters are on his side and the walls and how of disappointed politicians will not prevail against them. Attorney General Budd has submitted a carefully prepared opinion in which he states that under the constitution there can be no contest involving the Governorship before the present Legislature. Budd has been declared elected in accordance with the official returns filed in the office of the Secretary of State and therefore must be inaugurated. Though Budd's minority vote, Estee is about 1,100, the majority in the State against Estee is about 52,000. Public sentiment as well as the returns favor Budd, and politicians, however desirous they may be to get Estee in office, do not like to run counter to the wishes of the people. Though the Legislature of California is largely Republican a majority of the voters in nearly every Senatorial and Assembly district are against Estee and the lawmakers will not care to antagonize the majority of their constituents by resorting to unconstitutional methods to give the Governorship to the corporation candidate.

CHARGES AGAINST JUDGE RICKS.

At the last session of Congress charges were presented by labor organizations against Judge A. J. Ricks of the United States District Court of Northern Ohio. It was alleged that Judge Ricks was corruptly influenced in his decisions and rulings by railroad corporations. In the present session of Congress a memorial has been presented by Representative Johnson of Akron, Ohio, charges under oath that he has suffered large losses by reason of the decisions of Judge Ricks. The House of Representatives adopted without debate a resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to investigate the charges. These charges involve losses of about $50,000, 000 alleged to have been sustained by Ricks and others in consequence of the decisions of the court. While the charges are directed mainly against Judge Ricks, they indirectly affect Judge Burke and ex-United States Senator Payne of Ohio. It is expected that an investigation will result in startling disclosures, as it is intimated that Judge Ricks was influenced by coin considerations.

GOVERNOR JONES ANACONDA.

John E. Jones, who was elected last November Governor of Nevada for four years from the first Tuesday after the first Monday in January, 1897, was inaugurated at the State Capitol. The ceremony was simple and informal. Many friends congratulated Governor Jones and expressed the wish that his administration would be successful. The other State officers took charge of their respective offices, and entered upon the discharge of their duties. The whole State machinery, with the exception of the Supreme Court, is now run by the officers elected last November.

The Truckee Republican gives a comparison of the vote of Nevada county, California, in 1892 and 1891. In 1892, the Republican vote was 1,757; the Democratic vote 1,478, and the Populist vote 618. In 1891, the Republican vote on Governor was 1,510; Democratic, 1,486; Populist, 1,212. The Republican is of the opinion that the Populist vote was drawn more largely from the Republicans than from the Democrats.

ANOTHER STORM COMING.

A Boiler Explosion Causes Great Loss of Life.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Debate on the Currency Bill. WASHINGTON, January 8.—The Democratic members by a vote of 81 to 59 voted to amend the substitute for the Currency bill. It was asserted that the vote showed that the bill could not pass. The House Deliberator gave notice of an amendment. It proposes to enable the Secretary of the Treasury to fund Treasury notes which may remain in circulation after the 1st of August, 1895, which were issued under the act of February 25, 1893, and the act of March 3, 1891, and July 14, 1890, and to provide that the Secretary may determine, and to be sold at not less than par for gold or for Treasury notes.

Members flocked around Staley (Dem. of Pennsylvania) when he began a hysterical address against the bill. He was applauded when he said: "If the archbishop was needed to one who attempted to trample down the people, it is needed for the sake of the people, it is needed for the sake of the Government to himself. The time has come when there should be something more than brains, belly and legs to this Government." He referred to George H. and said that it had been given out that any one who voted against the bill would incur the displeasure of kings. Four days after the report of the Sherman Act members had told him they had been promised Revenue Collectors if they would vote for repeal.

CLERK OF CONTEMPT.

County Clerk Haley Gets into Trouble for Refusing to Give up His Office.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 8.—The dispute between Haley, the former incumbent, and Curry, as to which is elected County Clerk, culminated to-day in Haley being adjudged guilty of contempt of court in interfering with the administration of justice. Haley has refused to relinquish his office to Curry. Judge Bailey, who took seat on the bench for the first time yesterday, refused to allow Haley's deputy to act as clerk of his court and recognized Curry's deputy. He then committed Haley and his deputy, Harrigan, to the county jail for five days.

Judge Bailey then told Curry to take possession of the County Clerk's office and demand the jury-box. Curry reported back that Haley was entrenched in the office behind barricaded doors, over which an armed deputy stood guard. Judge Bailey then adjourned court until this afternoon to await developments, without taking further action.

Great Loss of Life.

THE OREGON, January 8.—A terrible accident, resulting in great loss of life, occurred in the bay to-day. The bodies of the Steamer Port Neithery, which had a large number of excursionists aboard, exploded, and the shock drove the red-hot coals in the furnace in every direction. The steamer caught fire, and a great number of those on board jumped overboard and perished in the flames. It is alleged that altogether 120 persons were drowned.

The Pooling Bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce had the House Pooling bill under consideration to-day and postponed final committee action until next Tuesday, when the committee meets again. The impressions to-day were generally favorable to the bill and the belief was expressed after adjournment that the bill will be reported practically without amendment at the next meeting.

Another Storm Coming.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 8.—The Weather Bureau announces this morning that a storm and southeast gales are displayed on the California coast from San Francisco northward, for a storm of great intensity is rapidly approaching the north Pacific coast and that dangerous southeast gales are anticipated from San Francisco northward. It is unsafe for any but the staunchest vessels to leave port.

Debs Goes to Jail for Contempt.

CHICAGO, Jan. 8.—Eugene V. Debs and associates, under jail sentence for contempt, surrendered to United States Marshal Arnold to-day and the jail commitments were promptly made out. No proceedings in court looking toward a stay of sentence were begun.

RAILROAD TAXES.

An Appeal From the Decision of the Supreme Court to the Federal Court Probable.

SAN FRANCISCO, January 8.—The decision of the Supreme Court that the Southern Pacific railroad must pay taxes for the year 1897 will probably be appealed, judging from what the officials of the road say. The basis upon which the appeal will be made is that the Federal franchise has been taxed, which gives the United States Supreme Court jurisdiction. There was a manifest determination among railroad officials not to discuss the case, but it is regarded as certain that an attempt to appeal to the Federal Supreme Court will be made.

Suffering in New Brunswick.

St. John's, January 8.—About 3,000 unemployed workmen formed into a line and paraded the principal streets carrying banners inscribed "Work or Bread." As their actions were peaceable the police did not disturb their march. The procession went to the British war ship Tourmaline, which was sent here to preserve order, and declared to the commander that if no work was available they would break open the shops and take food. Starvation is becoming more general daily. The Government promised to provide employment and relief for the people. The revenue for the past month was not as much as it was the corresponding month last year.

California's Lieutenant Governor.

LOS ANGELES, January 8.—Lieutenant Governor Hillard's condition to-day shows no improvement over yesterday. He is not able to get out of bed. The county office was not administered to-day. No announcement has been received by him of the result of the canvass of the vote by the Legislature. It is thought that the oath may be administered to him in bed to-morrow.

DISTRICT COURT.

The Contest Case of John H. Dennis vs. Wm. H. Coughlin.

The District Court was occupied all day yesterday in recounting the ballots in the contest case for Sheriff. The ballots of the precincts of Glendale and Verd were again counted, but there was no material change in the result arrived at the day before. Wadsworth precinct was taken up and the recount showed one less vote for each of the candidates for Sheriff than had been reported by the official returns. Three ballots had been rejected by the election board, one of which was given Coughlin for the present, and a ruling by the Court to be made later on.

Reno—First Ward, Hayes lost one vote by its having "yes" and "no" written after amendments.

Second Ward, Coughlin lost one vote and Hayes five. Four of Coughlin's votes were rejected by the Board for irregularities and one of Hayes'.

Third Ward, Each candidate lost two votes, they were marked ballots and not counted. No tally or poll list was found in the box from this ward, and no one seemed to know anything about it. One of the clerks was very positive that they had been placed in the box when returned, and the Commissioners had canvassed the returns, and there was a question as to how this could be done without the lists.

There were sixty-two voters in the three wards of Reno that did not mark their ballots for Sheriff.

If the straight ballots were to be counted only, Hayes would receive a majority of five on the recount. There are forty-three ballots that have been objected to on various grounds, and upon these the division will probably rest. No definite idea can be formed as to the result, as among the disputed ballots it is impossible to tell which will be admitted and which will not.

From the opinions of those most interested it is thought that the contest will be a close one and that the majority of either candidate when the result is declared will be only four or five votes.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effect and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

Funeral Notice.

The funeral of Eli Menard, who was accidentally shot while hunting near Verdi last Sunday, will take place from the undertaking parlors of G. Hoskins at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The body will arrive on the morning train from the west.

POLITICAL BOSSISM.

Mayor Sutro of San Francisco in his inaugural address says of political bosses: "That we have morally largely degenerated is best shown by the existence and power of political 'bosses,' who pack party conventions and often, in the name of party, manage to nominate sets of men whose sole recommendation is their willingness to serve their masters in preference to the people. "To go to the root of this overshadowing evil we must look to the origin of 'Bossism,' and we shall soon discover that it is mainly the unscrupulous power of corporations, backed by the corrupt use of money, which has caused the degeneration, the abasement and low moral standard of many of our voters."

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs. Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and with the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance. Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

VELVET COFFINS FOR TWO.

They May Be Utilized as Ornaments Until Needed For Use.

"Of all the queer persons of this queer world the undertaker, I believe, meets his full quota," so a reporter was told by a man wearing a funeral expression on his face and black gloves on his hands who came from a small town in a western state to attend the meeting of the Association of Undertakers.

"One of the queer persons is a wealthy woman who lives in my town. One day she came to my room, and as the hours passed down her sad face she begged to tell me between sobs that she wanted a coffin that was covered with royal purple velvet. I knew that her husband had been ill for some time and was not expected to live. So I began to offer a word of condolence on account of his death, as she and her husband were intimate friends of mine.

"Oh, he is not dead yet," sobbed the woman, "but I want you to call at the house and steal his measure while he is asleep. I want a royal purple velvet coffin, and it may take you several days to fill the order."

"I assured the fearful woman that it would perhaps be impossible to fill the order, as I had never heard of a coffin of any such description ever having been on the market. She went back home, and while the order was hanging fire her husband began to grow better and in a few days was entirely out of danger. He afterward recovered, and today he is a strong, healthy man. "But that woman still insists that I shall fill the order for a royal purple velvet coffin for her husband, and, furthermore, she has given me another order for a royal purple velvet coffin for herself. On my present trip to St. Louis I called at a large coffin factory here and surprised the proprietor by leaving the special and unique order to be filled. When the order had been filled, I can't say what our tiny queer customers will use the two royal purple velvet coffins as ornaments to match the decorations in their parlor at home."—St. Louis Republic.

Hardiness of the Grape Myrtle.

Philadelphia is about as far north as the grape myrtle grows hardy. Though killed to the ground, it will push up and flower like a herbaceous plant. Possibly it would give an attraction to gardens, in this horraceous way, much farther north than Philadelphia. Several correspondents write that it is not always killed down even so far north as Philadelphia. One at Chestnut Hill, a part of Philadelphia, instances a specimen, 5 to 6 feet high, which must have passed several winters unharmed.—Meridian's Monthly.

Act In the Present.

Don't let your heart be torn by love and sympathy to look over coffins. Living is more to be sought at best, and flowers on the coffin can do no backward fragrance.

What do you do for the tender token that you love, the fond offering? Don't let your heart be torn by love and sympathy to look over coffins. Living is more to be sought at best, and flowers on the coffin can do no backward fragrance.

IMPRESSIONS BY THE WAY

New Year's Day in the Nation's Capital—Diplomatic Pomp and Fin de Siecle Dullness.

New Year's Day is one of general observance in this city, where society vies with politics. One-half of our Nation's statesmen are much more concerned about the observance of strict social decrees than they are about the country's weal.

SOCIETY IN WASHINGTON.

Society has its strata very clearly defined, but by what criterion the division is made no man knoweth, for at some very well affairs the $300 clerk often elbows the millionaire and the saint and the sinner stand side by side. Probably the best nomenclature or the best defined mark or precedent of the particular social sets can be and is really determined by the order in which the diplomat, the statesman, the millionaire and the hot polloi call upon the President on New Year's Day.

RECEPTION AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Some days in advance it is publicly announced that the President will receive, stating the hours and rank. First come the Diplomatic Corps, led by the Dean of Diplomats, or the Ambassador who has represented his country for the longest period in America. This reception is very unique in appearance and to a man up "a tree," which is by far the best point of vantage, it rivals in gorgeousness a circus parade. Back Ambassador and his suite, attired in all the resplendent court costumes which have made the diplomatic circles of the world so famous for dress, present their respects to his Citizenship, Grover Cleveland. When we remember that modesty is but a question of geography and that from every nation there is a variety of dress suited to every clime, one's interest is attracted and his curiosity excited by a scene that no other American city can boast of, and which gay Paris, military Berlin and jolly London only, of all cities on earth, enjoy—the parade of the earth's diplomats. The English legation is the most dignified, the French the most polite, the German the most military in appearance, while the Chinese are by far the most picturesque. An aggregation of these dressy and distinguished foreigners is a sight well worth seeing and one long to be remembered.

The Chinese legation is Oriental in a marked degree, the most gorgeous silks, the most resplendent jewels, the queerest manners and a most perfect indifference characterize them.

The legations are presented to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland, exchange courtesies in a most diplomatic manner and pass out. The diplomatic corps are followed by the Supreme Court, Senators, Congressmen, G. A. R. men, various civic organizations, and then the public takes a hand. As the public reception to the humble citizen ceases promptly at 2 P. M., a line early forms at the west door of the White House, three abreast, which often reaches down the walk to the entrance, and this morning reached far around the State, War and Navy building. To day was bitter cold, yet thousands of people, men, women, children, school girls and boys stood shivering for hours to pass beneath the portico of the White House and grasp the rheumatic hand of Grover, the Great.

The line presented a fine study of human nature, some men there with true Democratic devotion; old men, who had probably shaken hands with fifteen or twenty Chief Magistrates, were in line. Men stood with their first-born in their arms that it might be said that a President had smiled on its cherubic countenance. Women stood in line vying with men for places.

Commencing with the diplomatic corps and ending with the citizens, the President received for five hours.

NEW YEAR'S GATES.

From 1 o'clock on matrons, chaperones and misses received the Beau Brummels toggled out in dress suits and filled up with wine. There are few places at which wine is not served, so that a young man must have moral courage who during the day does not sooner or later yield to the urgent request of some fair one who holds in one hand the sparkling wine tipped to rosy lips and with the other offers him a glass to join her.

The streets are alive with carriages, hacks, herds and coaches, carrying from one to a dozen young men, all attired in fashion's latest and in various stages of intoxication.

The door bell is rung, a liveried gent answers, a card is placed on the silver plate. You are ushered into the presence of one girl you know and about fifteen that you never met. You are then introduced, all the while bowing your politest acknowledgment, trying to catch the name, wondering if your tie is down and if your dress suit is wrinkled. Fifteen girls ask you about fifteen formal, conventional questions, all of which you are supposed to answer. You are then spirited into a dining-room, where an array of salads, cakes and wines are offered and a precious nip of each taken. A half-dozen girls, for whom you conceive a sympathy test a sharp breath of wind chill their bare arms and throbbing bosoms to a permanent destruction of health, wait on you and fire more questions. You are then, after exchanging cards, bodily fired into the cold world, to repeat the same performance at least every ten minutes in every hour during the remainder of the day.

STRANGE SIGHTS.

One sees queer sights. Yonder rolls a carriage with a liveried coachman and prancing horses. A Senator? No; four young men. Two get $6 a week at the Boston store; one gets $750 a year in the Census office; another is out of a job. All wear dress suits. Keene is $20 a head for reserved seats. The coach costs another $15; only $3 75 apiece. That means two fifteen-cent meals a day for a month.

Some time after 8 o'clock P. M. the merry-making begins and the boys do the town, and the Gaiety girls receive the pent-up kisses which society forbade to be lavished on the budding debutante of the afternoon.

To-morrow morning hacks will roll through town and feet will dangle from cab windows. The fin de siecle American youth has paid society its due and given sin-bred morning his all. Are these the future architects of our nation's structure?

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 1, 1895

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN.

It will be fought on the issue of bimetalism or monometalism.

Senator Stewart, in an interview regarding the Populist conference in St. Louis, said the action of the conference will force the next presidential campaign to be fought on the issue of bimetalism or monometalism. In former campaigns the old parties have nominally favored silver in their platforms, but their acts have belied their pledge. In 1896 they will be compelled to square their platforms by their acts, and this will place them on the single standard gold side of the issue. The Populists will meet them with a fair and bold declaration in favor of the free coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. Thus the line will be drawn, and no true friend of bimetalism will have any excuse for casting his ballot for the candidate of either of the old parties.

The action of the St. Louis conference in bringing the money question squarely to the front cannot but strengthen Populists in all of the Western and Southern States, where the Republicans and Democrats have posed as the friends of free coinage. The people have grown tired of campaign promises which were wholly disregarded when Congress met, or an administration came into power. They are feeling more and more the blighting effect of a single gold standard and are anxious once more to enjoy the industrial prosperity which bimetalism assures. In the next Congressional and Presidential campaign they need not be deceived. If they cast their ballots for any but the party pledged to restore the full gold and silver coinage of the Constitution there will be no one but themselves to blame for a continuation of single standard rule.

Board of Commissioners.

The Board of Commissioners met yesterday pursuant to adjournment. The full Board was present.

The first business was the selection of a list of trial jurors.

The consideration of the water and street light question was postponed until the next regular meeting of the Board.

It was ordered that the employment of Scott Hart, the teams and help on the streets be discontinued and that Mr. Hart be required to return all things belonging to the county to the court-house, and that a list of the same be furnished.

No further business appearing the Board adjourned to meet on the third Monday of January, the 21st inst.

BROUGHT HOME.

The Remains of R. W. Ash Arrive—Particulars of His Death.

J. M. McCormack returned from Hawthorne last evening, in charge of the remains of Robt. W. Ash. Mr. McCormack says that Mr. Ash died at 6:15 A. M. Monday. Sunday morning he had been leading a team for Bodie, and about noon he was working at his desk and it is supposed he took a fainting spell, to which he was subject, and fell heavily to the floor. He was alone, but persons near at hand heard him groan and went to him immediately, and found him on the floor of the office in an unconscious condition and with a contusion on the side of the head near the temple. A physician was summoned who pronounced the attack apoplexy.

During the afternoon he regained consciousness for a few minutes and requested to be raised up, and upon this being done he asked if he was up, and was answered affirmatively. He replied that he felt as if he was standing on his head, and seemed to be in great pain, his groans at times being plainly heard across the street. He shortly relapsed into unconsciousness and remained so until he died. The physician's certificate gives the cause of death as apoplexy, but many of his friends think the force of the fall is what proved fatal, as his sufferings seemed intense until death relieved him.

Members of Truckee Lodge, No. 14, I. O. O. F., of which Mr. Ash was a member, met the remains on the arrival of the V. & T. passenger last evening and escorted them to W. Sanders' undertaking parlors.

Up to a late hour last night it had not been decided whether the remains would be shipped to California or not, as instructions were expected from relatives regarding the burial.

He leaves a brother at Patterson, N. J., and a sister at Indianapolis, Ind.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.

The Marriage of One of Nevada's Brightest Daughters to Dr. T. P. McDonald.

St. Mary's Catholic Church in this city was the scene of a very brilliant church wedding this afternoon. The occasion was the marriage of Dr. T. P. McDonald and Miss Dollie McCone, two of Virginia's most prominent young people. The wedding transpired at about 3 o'clock and the marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Tubman.

The church was crowded while the wedding was taking place and many prominent people were present. The nuptials constituted a society event of prime significance, and its happening was attended by much stir and interest among the best people of the Comstock.

The church was very tastefully decorated with festoons of smilax and garlands of flowers, and the scene presented while the function was going on was brilliant and impressive.

While the wedding march was playing the groom and the best man came out from the right of the altar, and the bride and her attendants came down the aisle. First came the bridesmaid and ushers and then the bride leaning on the arm of her brother, Senator McCone.

The bride was arrayed in white brocade satin en train, and carried a bunch of bride's roses, and the elegance and tastefulness of her costume elicited many expressions of admiration. The bridesmaid wore a gown of pink satin brocade and white chiffon, and bore a bouquet of American Beauty roses. Her attire was very handsome.—Virginia Chronicle.

Dr. T. P. McDonald and wife arrived on the V. & T. last evening and left for San Francisco on the west-bound and will spend their honeymoon in California. They will make their home at Virginia City.

TYPHOON IN MANILLA.

APPROACH OF THE TERRIBLE WIND AND EFFECTS OF ITS VISIT.

The Inhabitants Are Warned by Signals and Have Ample Time for Preparation.

Breaks Up With Deadly Squalls and Closes In Devastating Floods.

Early in the eventful week warnings came from our excellent observatory that trouble was brewing down on the Pacific to the south and east, and about Friday the No. 1 typhoon signal was displayed. The news respecting the storm was indefinite, but the villain was supposed to be moving northwest, headed directly for us. Saturday morning signal No. 2, and in the afternoon No. 3, and in the evening No. 4. Still everything was calm and peaceful, and Sunday morning dawned pleasant but for the exception of a haze. Early in the forenoon up went signal No. 5, which is only three from the worst one that can be put up—No. 8, and now everybody began to get ready for the inevitable monster. All the steamers and ships in the river put out extra cables, and the former got up steam. No craft of any kind were permitted to go out of the river, and the fleet of ships in the bay appeared to be putting out their spars and masts. Still everything was calm, but the haze thickened, and low sand clouds began to sail in from the China sea.

Just after we finished tiffin, at our little seaside house, our gaze was riveted on a native coming down the street, dressed in a black coat, with shirt hanging out beneath, in true Philippine costume, and wearing white trousers and a tall hat. He carried a sort of decorated cane, marched down the center of the street and gave utterance to solemn sentiments in a deep, musical voice. In short, he was the official order to herald the coming typhoon, and as he marched along the bells in the old church rang out a wild, warning plea. The natives opposite us hastily began to sling ropes over the roofs of their light nipa shanties, and one of the English fellows who lives just back of us had already stretched good sized cables over the tall, sloping tin roof of his domicile. A sort of hush prevailed, and then sudden gusts began to blow in off the bay. The sand clouds increased and appeared to be in a terrible rush. The roar of the surf became louder and louder, and one after another of our oyster shell windows had to be shut. The typhoon was advancing slowly, but its course was sure.

Our 8 o'clock dinner passed, and now the wind began to howl. Before going to bed we moved out of our little parlor such valuables as might be missed by being carried through the air, in case our roof came off, and went to bed amid a terrific din. Sleep was impossible. Our horses trembled like a blushing bride before the altar, and for a triumphant exit—wedding march—the tin was suddenly ripped off our secondary rain shed roof like so much paper. Great pieces of tin were slapping around and up against the house and would have saved a head or hand off had one attempted to poke his neck out. At 8:30 we took a look into the "sala." No glass window had stood the gusts that came pouncing in from the bay, but our oyster shells did not yield. The noise outside was deafening. The house hung together, and we were thankful that we were not off in the bay. The wind fell in the early morning, and a calm came some of the most terrible changes of wind, the deadliest squalls and most terrific blowing. I ever felt. Down came all the water in the main street, over what half a dozen nipa on one side of us; crack, bang, broke off some great venerable trees. The street was a mass of wreckage as far as we could see, and few signs of life were visible.

All the rest of the day the winds blew most fiercely, but we could see that the center of the typhoon was passing off to the north. I sat out in the afternoon and managed to keep along behind the trees and reached the Lunaeta, where all the lamps bent their heads, with broken glass, and where the huge waves were flying far up into the air as they dashed against the sea wall. The clumps of fishing and bathing houses were battered in pieces, and those which weren't minus roofs and sides were washed up into the road as mere driftwood. The natives were grabbing logs, while the fishermen's families were crouching behind a stone wall watching their wrecked "barns" and were sitting on their sampans, furniture and babies to keep them from sailing skyward. The vessels out in the bay were throwing the surf high over their bows. One of them seemed to be ashore and her stern very near the breakers. A steamer had broken drift and run into another, losing all her anchors and chain. But all things have an end, and at night the winds and rains subsided. The typhoon was wide in diameter, and so was not as destructive as the one in 1882.

After the typhoon came the floods, and the river overflowed and flooded all the adjacent low country. The water covered the road to the club to the depth of three feet, and two of my friends were nearly drowned by trying to drive when they should have rowed. The poor pony walked off into the field, in the darkness, by mistake, into eight feet of water and was drowned. The boys nearly got stuck inside the trap, but managed to save themselves. As it was, one had to rescue the other and has been since presented with a gold watch. C. was giving a dinner dance the next evening when word came that the festivities would be postponed till terra firma appeared. But the show is all over, and business, which has been paralyzed for a week, once more starts up.—Cor. Boston Transcript.

Natchez, Miss., was at first called Rosalie in honor of the Countess of Pontheartrain. Its name was changed to that of a tribe of local Indians.
